Short Description

With the Alphacool measuring kit, measuring the lengths and angles needed to bend HardTubes accurately is quick and easy.

Description

With the Alphacool measuring kit, measuring the lengths and angles needed to bend HardTubes accurately is quick and easy.

The set includes rulers in different lengths, as well as corresponding angles and a distance metre. With the included screws, all the rulers can be attached to one another and can slide along their guiding slots. This lets you measure not just one angle but several angles and straight sections at the same time. Then, the screws can all be tightened so nothing slides around. Now the whole thing can be placed on a heat-proof surface and the HardTubes can be heated and bent with an Alphacool Heatgun.

All components are made of aluminum, guaranteeing high stability and a long lifespan.
