Short Description

For the most demanding gamers and games Ozone introduces its professional gaming headset STRATO. The name Strato comes from stratosphere which is where ozone is highly concentrated, the same way Ozone engineers concentrated their efforts in making the most complete gaming headset possible. With high quality 5.1 surround sound, customizable software and an ultra-comfortable design, STRATO is great gaming tool to bring your game performance to the next level.

The five separated sound channels allow you to differentiate sound from each direction allowing you to locate your opponents easily by the noise they make. STRATO's software allows the user to set-up virtually everything on your headset, from audio in channels to audio out, reverb settings and equalization, where you create your own EQ profiles. Our designers took special care on the designs aspects related to comfort and usability.

Leather ear cushions are used to increase the comfort during prolonged gaming sessions. Its flexible mic extension allows user to change the mic's position in a second. The in-line controller allows you to maintain full control of all separated sound channels as well as the microphone. Its unique foldable design allows you to bring STRATO with you anywhere saving space and protecting your headset from damage.
