Short Description

The successor to our flagship LF Reaction lineup, FrozenQ PC Tech is proud to present the new LFX Reservoir System. Taken from customer feedback, we've changed the reservoir to a larger 60mm diameter, made it fully modular (meaning pumps can be attached with separate mount), and now give you the option to add in a helix or other aesthetic core if you want to, making this reservoir more affordable than our previous offerings.

Description

The successor to our flagship LF Reaction lineup, FrozenQ PC Tech is proud to present the new LFX Reservoir System. Taken from customer feedback, we've changed the reservoir to a larger 60mm diameter, made it fully modular (meaning pumps can be attached with separate mount), and now give you the option to add in a helix or other aesthetic core if you want to, making this reservoir more affordable than our previous offerings. This reservoir is made from extra thick acrylic glass and precision machined POM ends and no threading! The central light core acts as a tension rod keeping the reservoir safely secured together. No threading combined with short cycle annealing means a stronger tube with less chance for cracking and easier installation.

The LFX Reservoir System comes with a 5mm white LED which illuminates the central tension rod. Our cathode bulbs/CCFL's are not compatible with this reservoir.

Features

- High quality CNC machined POM/acrylic construction
- Extra thick acrylic tube resists cracking and provides superior optical quality
- Modular design allows for hundreds of configurations
- 2 upper G1/4 ports and 2 lower G1/4 ports
- Lower side port cap allows for extra flexibility when planning your system
- White LED module to illuminate the central core included

Specifications
