Features

What has changed?

This is where Alphacool's 16 years of experience pays off! The already powerful Eisblocks have been further optimized: A new look, thinner thermal pads (1 mm), a thinner copper block (5.5mm) and a significantly improved flow rate are just some of the important changes.

And the design?

This time Alphacool puts the lighting more in the foreground! Along the entire cooling block there are addressable digital RGB LEDs, so that no corner of your case remains in the dark. The more angular design compared to its predecessors further enhances this effect.

What else?

There have been no compromises with the materials and the cooling block is still 100% copper. Now however, the nickel-plating of the cooler has been further optimised. This increases acid resistance and almost eliminates the risk of chipping the nickel-plating. A further highlight is the use of the patented Alphacool stop plugs: These sit flush with the surface of the cooler and form a flat surface when screwed in. No more annoying protruding stop fittings! Finally, the branding of the Eisblock has been adapted. It is now much more discreet and fits perfectly into the already elegant appearance.

With this product Alphacool has once again proven its technical know-how! Check it out for yourself and let your system shine in a new light!
