Short Description

The Lian Li O11D MK1 is made entirely of transparent acrylic glass and thus allows a view of the cooling liquid flowing through, which is sealed off by high-quality seals and O-rings on the G1/4 ports. However, the Distroplate becomes a real eye-catcher thanks to the integrated RGB lighting. The strip can be connected to common 5VDBG slots on a mainboard via the 3-pin connector. The lighting can be controlled via ASUS Aura Sync, ASRock Polychrome Sync, Gigabyte RGB Fusion and MSI Mystic Light Sync.

The O11D Mini MK1 is installed next to the mainboard in the case and thus enables the installation of two 360 mm radiators in the base and lid of the midi tower. In general, however, the distribution plate is also compatible with other cases that offer space next to the mainboard tray or in the front for a 280 mm radiator. However, care must be taken that the pump protrudes to the rear and elongated mounting rails offer the best compatibility for screwing it on.
