Short Description

Barrow G1/4 Mini 90 Degree Rotary Adapter Fitting - Black (TWT90-M-SL)

Description

The BARROW Mini 90° Rotary Adapter (Male to Female) is a compact and durable accessory for liquid cooling systems, allowing for easy and leak-free connection of water cooling components at a 90° angle. Its small size and rotary function make it ideal for tight spaces and mini-ITX builds.

Features

The BARROW Mini 90° Rotary Adapter (Male to Female) is a small but versatile computer accessory designed for liquid cooling systems. This adapter allows users to connect two water cooling components, such as water blocks or radiators, at a 90° angle without the need for complex tubing routing or fittings. The adapter features a compact design and is made from high-quality materials, including brass and nickel plating, ensuring durability and longevity. The male to female connectors provide a secure and leak-free connection between components.

The rotary function of the adapter allows for easy installation and customization of the cooling loop. The BARROW Mini 90° Rotary Adapter has a G1/4 thread size, which is a common size used in water cooling systems. The adapter also has a low-profile design, which makes it suitable for use in tight spaces or where clearance is limited.

Additionally, the adapter's small size makes it an ideal choice for mini-ITX or small form factor builds. Overall, the BARROW Mini 90° Rotary Adapter (Male to Female) is an excellent choice for those looking to enhance the performance and appearance of their liquid cooling system. Its compact design, high-quality materials, and easy installation make it a reliable and efficient choice for any computer enthusiast.
