Short Description

The Cooler Master Hyper Z600R is an excellent passive cooler for those looking to make their PC silent. The 6 copper heatpipes efficiently wick heat away from your CPU out to the highly optimized "X" fins. If you're not looking to silence your computer and simply looking for all out performance the Z600R has you covered as well, simply strap on a 120mm fan and you have instant performance. Are you highly overclocking or looking for maximum performance? Again not to worry, the Z600R allows you to strap on two 120mm fans for unparalleled performance, plus the "X" shaped fin design allows for the maximum airflow over the fins!

Features

- The interlaced fins maximizes the dissipation surface to provide superior cooling performance

- Unique “X” design creates lower back pressure to make air pass through heatsink quickly and guide more air pass through the heatsink
- Mirror-coated copper base and 6 heat pipes ensure 100% contact with the processor to maximize the heat conduction. It could draw heat from CPU to the heat pipes immediately.
- Optimum fin space allows air pass through heatsink quickly
- Works great in passive and active mode (just add fan(s))
