Description

Made out of SC steel radiator grills are the perfect cover for each radiator. They also offer if fans are mounted to protect against the fast-rotating rotors. If the radiator is recessed into the casing makes this perfectly shaped aperture the perfect end to the housing cover. For this purpose, extra added an outer edge, in which holes are present to ensure an independent assembly of the cover on the radiator cover and the fan and radiator. This panel is intended for radiator with a 140mm fan size. This is not an inferior standard panel but the very best products for their projects.

Visually, many variants are available, also there is this Phobya panel Color in white, silver and black. But all have one constant: the quality seal of the house Phobya in the center of the diaphragm!
